Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. In these tough economic times we do not need more unwanted children being brought into the world. Every child deserves to be given the best start possible by being wanted and planned. Also teen pregnancies ruin way too many lives and leave teen mothers with few alternatives to support themselves and their children.

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. If the lunatic right-wingers have their way, some religions that prohibit blood transfusions...or any medical care at all...could have their way, too. Birth control is a right that all people should have, and I can barely believe that the American Taliban (aka the GOP) has the temerity to mess with it.

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, that ensure women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. People who appose birth control measures mainly do so for their own religious reasons, and most religious people believe they have the one true religion. But how many "one true" religions can there be? In our democracy we have religious freedom, and it is wrong to force one's own religious beliefs on others.

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. It is critical that this be protected as those who want to see it abolished do not want to take care of children that would be born to parents who are not prepared to take on the responsibility for a child. It is stupid to believe if contraception were not available that it would be a deterrant from sexual behavior without wedlock. Also many women who are married but cannot afford the cost of another pregnancy for many reasons would be severely affected if this were taken away. In turn unwanted pregnancies would affect everyone in this mation one way or another. Prevention is a far better cost effective, safe, sane method.

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. This is an obvious choice for society at large to make because it reduces the costs to healthcare providers, medicare, medicaid. (The the arguments from the GOP's being that both should be reduced or even negated one day!) It allows a women to make the choice to have or not a child. It also halts the spread of HIV/AIDS if using a condom. In other words once again, reducing the need for care from Medicare/Medicaid. The ability to choose which birth control to use. Again, in other words, women are people and should be respected as such and not third rate non entities.

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. As a mother of two girls, whom I hope are a long ways from becoming sexually active. It scares the dickens out of me that even when they become young adults and hopefully are making good choices, that their potential employer would have the right to take away those choices. Without insurance, reliable safe birthcontrol is very difficult to afford. Being sexually active is not a recent "new" turn of events in thie social history of mankind. Please continue to support wide spread affordable birth control, for the safety of our girls, the freedom of our women, and ultimately, the safety of the babies that are born.

Let's remember that it is the corporation that pays the salary, not the owner. And a corporation is a creation of the state. If the owner wants to be able to dictate these types of policies, let him do business without the state granted protections of being a corporation.

RE: Docket ID: CMS-2012-0031

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. Access to birth control at low cost (I don't support freebies if folks can afford drugs) is more than a gender issue. The ability to plan for families is crucial to a person's ability to choose that which is best for herself/her family/her community. It ranks up there with the right to get an education, access clean water and healthy food, and be safe from criminal incursions. Please view this as sacred in the same sense that civil rights are sacred and protected in our highest law!

When states pass backward legislation against health care provisions for contraception and birth control, which rules, state or federal government? This is really a religious issue, trying to legislate morality. I can not expect everyone to accept my religious beliefs.

While I think the demands of the Catholic hierarchy are outrageous, I appreciate your willingness to bend over backwards to ensure that women have coverage for birth control. I would have told those old men to take a hike. Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception. The bishops don't like it – but Catholic women sure do. There's a reason why priests never, ever mention contraception in a sermon. If they did, they'd face a huge walk out.

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. As a pediatrician who uses oral contraceptive drugs for many more medical reasons than the need for contraceptives, it is unfair that insurance companies/employers can avoid coverage for these needed therapies based on others personal beliefs. It is also critical that young women who are making responsible decisions about their own personal health continue to have access to these medications.

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the opposition. Women must have access to contraception to avoid unintended pregnancies. Having the ability to plan for children can only improve the lives of women and their families. I fully support your Affordable Care Act along with its provisions for full access to cost free birth control. Thank you for taking a stand for women.

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Stand tall on this against opposition from the Republicans. A woman and her male partner need to be able to choose whether or not it is the right time for a baby. A baby needs to be born when he or she will be loved and appreciated.

RE: Docket ID: CMS-2012-0031

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women will have access to no-cost birth control. The Obama Administration has gone above and beyond in accommodating employers that are affiliated with particular religious organizations through its reformed rules and even to accommodate employers with religious objections. To grant some employers more exemptions on the basis of asserted religious beliefs would violate the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment, no matter how weakened it may have become, as well as violate the rights of women under the Equal Protection clause. Such a precedent would be dangerous to the country as a whole, as it would "open the door" to other religious objections to ACA—for example, a Christian Scientist employer would object to any health insurance coverage, a Jehovah's Witness employer could object to paying for insurance that covers blood transfusions, and so on. And in real political terms, Republican opponents of the ACA are using contraception as a "wedge" issue to undermine the whole Act; right-wing opposition to other provisions is sure to follow if the Administration gives any more ground on the issue of women's right to access to contraception. Thank you for your consideration.

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. As a midwife caring for contraceptive-seeking women (as well as pregnant ones) I know that one of the biggest barriers to using the most effective and long-acting methods of contraception, such as IUDs and implants, are the high initial costs. The ACA's free access to birth control is vital to millions of women and should not be compromised.

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. I don't speak as loudly or publicly as the people who would like to limit my and my daughters' access to planning their pregnancies. Not every one in this country believes the same thing and that is an individual choice. It should be every woman's choice to determine when they wish to become pregnant. Please continue to protect this choice. Free choice in a free country. I believe that the majority of women in this country, to judge by the people that I know and others I talk to want access to contraception when they need it.

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. All women, not just the privileged, count on your to protect their rights to control their bodies. You put it in the law – now, please protect it. You have done your best to compromise, but the religious bigots are not interested in compromise – just controlling women. Thank you!

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. Prohibiting access to birth control discriminates against women, as they are solely responsible for giving birth to any conceived child. We cannot have a society where women are expected to bear all the burden of preventing births, particularly given the norms of sexual activity our culture holds, as evidenced both by human activity and media presentation.

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. It is ludicrous to have a group of celebrate men, Catholic bishops, to even comment on the right for women to chose their own reproductive course! I was one of the first women to legally receive a RX of birth control pills in CT. I want the government to protect this right for my grand daughters. Regards, Peg Moran

No birth control just increases the chances that women will need abortions, and as usual, the people who suffer most are the poor. Women with money will find a way to get birth control or a way to get an abortion. These actions are not fooling us women. We know it will not affect the wealthy, just those with less money.

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. If there is anything that needs attention it is maintaining and eventually reducing birth rates and allowing population levels to fall. There are simply too many people on this earth. When I was a kid the world had about 2.5 Billion people (1950, Wikipedia). It now has over 7B. The number grew by over a billion between 1990 and 2008 and may reach 10B by 2050. If we want to allow economic development and prevent wars and death by massive diseases, birth control is necessary. In this country, preventing unwanted births is key to increasing education levels and reducing crime. Please keep contraception available to those who desire it and do whatever can be done to inform and encourage those who don't. Thank you

To Whom it May Concern:

My niece was told after a difficult third pregnancy that another pregnancy would probably be fatal. She was happily married, had young children who needed her, and was a successful career woman whose income was important to her family. If her employer could have denied her birth control she would have had three choices: (1) give up her career for which she had worked hard for years (2) leave her much loved husband, or (3) risk dying, robbing her children of their mother. Fortunately, she had freedom of religion, and used birth control, and lived. Freedom of religion is for all citizens, no matter what their bosses think!

RE: Docket ID: CMS-2012-0031

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you, thank you, thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception. This is so important for so many, and will help ensure women are healthy and will not bring extra lives into this world when they cannot afford them. There are already so many mouths that go unfed every day, and access to birth control will only help this problem. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. Their selfishness will eventually catch up with them. Thank you.

RE: Docket ID: CMS-2012-0031

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. Religious organizations need to realize that their employees freedom of religion, or better put, freedom from religion, ensures their rights free from these constraints. Imposition of religious values on those who do not share them IS NOT FREEDOM OF RELIGION.

The right wing does not believe in freedom of religion. They are doing whatever they can to restrict what people can do. Birth control and abortion are just the top of the iceberg. We have to stand up to them at all times. Else, we will lose what is most valuable in our lives - our freedom. Thanks for standing for women's rights.

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. Any religious entity has the right to impose their views on those who subscribe to their beliefs. However, if that entity enters the public sphere by going into a business, it must be expected to abide by the laws and regulations of the society at large. That religious institution may not re-shape the law to fit into their peculiar beliefs. Do not allow the Roman Catholic Church to force its beliefs on the majority of our society which does not follow their teachings.

I simply believe that it should not be my decision or that of the government to make that choice for women. Therefore, I support a woman's right to choose and that this type of support and for all women's issues should be affordable and available.

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. Please do not fold, do not compromise women's rights by enabling anyone to deny them, or make the costs easily affordable by all. If people do not want to exercise birth control, that is their right. Whether the reason is religious belief, stupidity, lack of conscience, or whatever, it is their right. No group, religious or otherwise, has any right to deny others the opportunity to exercise the good conscience that is exemplified by use of contraception.

No one loves their children or is more dedicated to the welfare of children than women around the world. It is just this love and dedication that requires that WOMEN be in charge of their procreation. It is only when women have access to birth control that they will be able to create the life that nurtures women and their children to the highest degree.

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. While the Catholic church has every right to encourage its members to not use birth control, it has no business trying to influence congress to prevent those who do not share their beliefs from following their own beliefs. And I do not understand why those who do not believe women should have the right to an abortion can also wish to refuse their rights to free access to birth control other then to want everyone to have to abide by their values. I understand that compromise has a place in politics, but this issue is so huge and so far reaching. Please please please to not endorse this proposed loophole.

Thank you for the new the Affordable Care Act rules on contraception, which ensure that women have access to no-cost birth control. Please continue to protect this access, regardless of the right-wing opposition. The majority of Americans feel birth control is a right of women and the continued attack on this right is leading to additional discord in our political arena. Why cannot segments of the Republican party accept this very personal decision is a woman and her partner's right to make without interference.
